

Green Mountain Guild is hosting a week long release party for their first full length album Train.

Portland, OR Release: January 6-12th.

Green Mountain Guild has channeled their unique tapestry of folk, soul, jazz and neoclassical music into their new full length album Train. The forthcoming album is a follow up to their 2017 EP Holy Waters and is set to be released during their week long residency at McMenamins Al's Den from January 6th through the 12th.

Train was recorded and mixed by Mark Kaeder at Falcon Studios and mixed by Cass Anawaty of Sunbreak Music. GMG was honored to have Marc Hutchinson sit in with tenor saxophone on a couple tunes and they are excited to showcase a different musical guest each night of their album release.

Jan 6th - Clay Bed Submersibles

Jan 7th - Rachel Taylor Brown

Jan 8th - Stevie & Moorea

Jan 9th - TBA

Jan 10th - Frank Irwin Quintet

Jan 11th - Jack Maybe Project

Jan 12th - TBA

Train is composed of nine tracks that take on a large range of feelings, from optimistic and upbeat Train, to soulful and contemplative All These Years, to stark and moody Gravity, to loving and sweet Don't Stop Loving. Crafted and arranged with harmonies, lyric melodies and groove. At its core GMG is an musical ensemble that is compelled to tell a story.

Singer songwriter Jason O'Neill-Butler has been quietly toiling away in his corner of Portland for the past 17 years. His musical journey has taken him all over the map and he frequently finds himself reinventing his sonic persona. Having studied jazz at MHCC, then classical at PSU, at the same time playing in an eclectic mix of bands in town, has lead him to create GMG's current sound. Together with a diverse crew of bandmates, they have spun together an album that they feel will stand the test of time.

Train will be available on CD and can be downloaded and streamed at CD Baby, iTunes and Bandcamp, Spotify and Apple Music among others.

Listen to a private soundcloud link of the new album: New Album Train

www.greenmountainguild.com

<https://www.facebook.com/greenmountainguild>

Contact Info:

Jason O'Neill-Butler

971-221-0027

jason@greenmountainguild.com